EUROPE

MARTINEAU AVOCATS arose from the desire to provide personalized counsel to corporation and independent entrepreneurs on matters relating to Information Technology (IT) and Intellectual Property (IP). The firm, founded by Anne-Katel Martineau in late 2007, draws on partnerships with European and American law firms – especially in New York where Anne-Katel used to work – to allow it to support its clients' international projects. The firm focuses on all areas of IT, telecoms, medias, visual arts and art market, design, audiovisual, film, music, photography and fashion sectors.

Anne-Katel herself specializes in information and communications technology law, with more than 10 years of experience in the area. She completed numerous important internships with French and English speaking law firms from around the world that also specialized in IT law before beginning her career at the prestigious Courtois Lebel. After a short time spent in America, Anne-Katel returned to Paris where she runs now MARTINEAU AVOCATS, using her experience and contacts gained throughout her career to help clients address their business-related issues.

As well as Anne-Katel, the firm also benefits from the expertise of Diane de Tarr-Michel, an attorney at the Paris Bar. She studied intellectual property law at a number of prestigious institutions including Oxford University, and now works mainly with legal advice and litigation in art law and trademark law. Specializing in such a wide range of fast moving areas means that MARTINEAU AVOCATS have to stay at the cutting edge of progress, staying ahead of changing trends and legislation. This is where their network of partners comes into its own, allowing MARTINEAU AVOCATS to combine the wide ranging expertise of Anne-Katel with the specialist knowledge of professionals in a wide variety of fields to deliver the best results to customers.
